THE PRINCESS TROUBETSKOI.—For months there has been a great deal published in northern journals in reference to Amalie Rives, now Princess Troubetzkoi, the famous Virginia authoress. Many of the reports about her health have been greatly exaggerated, and some things which have been written in reference to her condition have had no foundation whatever. It is true that the Princess has been quite sick for some time at the home of her father, Colonel Alfred L. Rives, of "Charles Hall," Alexandria county, Va. Her trouble, according to the opinion of her medical adviser, is "nervous prostration, brought on from overwork." Nearly a month ago the Princess was taken suddenly worse, and her husband was summoned to her bedside; but recently her condition is said to be much improved, though she is very weak. Her mind is not affected, and there is no truth in the statement that she refuses to see her husband and other members of the family. She seems to be devoted to her husband, who is daily by her bedside, and is very sympathetic, rendering such aid as he can to her comfort and restoration. Until her extreme illness, about a month ago, the Princess had been engaged daily on a new book, which she had anticipated giving to the publisher early in the fall, but owing to sickness she has been able to write but little, at intervals, for some time. The hope of a physician and her immediate friends is that she may soon be restored to her former health and vigor, and the public may have the pleasure of hearing from her gifted pen again.

SHOT BY JEALOUS HUSBAND.—In the postoffice at Elizabethton, Tenn., on Thursday, John H. Tipton, a prominent young lawyer, fired three shots from a revolver into the back of George Swift, a young man whom Tipton suspected of being on too intimate terms with Mrs. Tipton, a young and beautiful woman. Swift's wounds are not fatal. Tipton, on account of his suspicion, had previously sent his wife to her parents in McMinn county. The husband was placed under arrest, but gave bond in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance for trial. Swift recently came to East Tennessee from New York to be secretary of the Tennessee Mineral Company.
